By RALPH DIGHTON

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — With a promise of favorable weather in the offing, the U.S. space agency today began a preliminary countdown aimed at launching astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. into space at 7 a.m. Eastern Standard Time Friday.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the weather had improved and it now looks like a better than 50-50 chance of launching Friday.

The Project Mercury weather support group said there would be "fair weather in the Cape area Friday."

In the capsule recovery area 200 miles down range the forecast was for partly cloudy skies with a few widely scattered showers.

The weather support group said there would be easterly surface winds of 10-15 knots with waves three to four feet high.

Those conditions appeared to fall well within the acceptable limits for the launching.

Bad weather forced postponement Tuesday of the first attempt to launch the 37-year-old Navy commander on his 115-mile high ride.

Shepard and his backup, John H. Glenn Jr., today passed up further simulated tests in a mock capsule similar to the one perched on the Redstone rocket which will launch this nation's first spaceman.

The men had simulated flights Wednesday such as they have been going through for several weeks in preparation for the flight. Each ran through one flight while an engineer for the McDonnell Aircraft Corp., sat in the actual capsule on the pad. A space agency spokesman said the engineer, Burt North, sat in the capsule for three simulated missions lasting from 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 hours each.

The tests were to check out the complete Redstone and capsule system, said John Powers, NASA spokesman. "Each of them was very good."

Powers said that one of the main reasons for the runthroughs was to check an electrocardiograph sensor in the capsule which will radio back information on Shepard's heart during the flight.

The sensor had not worked properly during the countdown that preceded the postponement of the flight on Tuesday.

Today's countdown was to last five to seven hours and give most of the rocket's major system a complete check.

The final countdown is scheduled to start at 12:30 a.m. Friday morning. If it goes without a hitch, Shepard will be airborne at 7 a.m.

Shepard and Glenn performed Wednesday's mission dressed in sports clothes and did not don their silver-colored space suits.

Mercury officials planned a mid-night conference to take a last look at the weather forecast before deciding to go ahead with the final countdown. A similar mid-night briefing was held before the first attempt on Tuesday.

At that time the weather forecast was marginal but scientists decided to go ahead with the count. But two storm fronts moving toward the planned recovery area forced the postponement.

In addition to his scientific activities, Shepard is trying to work in a little exercise to keep himself physically sharp.

Youth Admits Killing Girls in Michigan

KADOKA, S.D. (AP) — James Scott Stephens, 16, was held for Michigan authorities far from home in this prairie country town today after police said he admitted the rifle slayings of two Holland, Mich., schoolgirls.

South Dakota officers said Wednesday night that the teenage Boy Scout admitted the slayings "with no emotion" after being questioned all day. Stephens was quoted as saying the slayings were accidental.

Don Licht, state crime bureau agent, and Warren Pearson, Jackson County sheriff, refused to give details of the youth's statement, saying they had been so instructed by authorities at Holland.

An Associated Press Wirephoto newspaper picture of the youth brought Stephens' arrest. Kadoka Police Chief Alvin Baldwin picked him up about midnight Tuesday after seeing him standing in front of a roadside diner and noting his resemblance to the picture.

The slender, brown-haired high school sophomore carried a knapsack and had $5 when his 1,200-mile flight from home was halted. Stephens vanished Sunday while searchers were looking for Carol Gee, 11, and Margaret Chambers, 12, who had disappeared the afternoon before while picking wild flowers near their homes just outside Holland.

The bullet-riddled bodies of the girls were found under mounds of leaves in a Lake Michigan sand dune area Monday.

Judge Blasts Parole of Dope Violators

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Garland County officials today blasted the release on parole of a Hot Springs man convicted of narcotics possession and issued a warrant for his arrest.

Circuit Judge P. E. Dobbs issued the warrant for Worth Gregory, 47, on grounds that a $1,000 fine assessed against him when he was convicted Aug. 31, 1959, had not been paid.

The state Pardon and Parole Board approved a parole for Gregory Wednesday. He was sentenced to five years.

Dobbs said the Parole Board "did not show the court or prosecuting attorney the courtesy of a notice that the man was coming up for parole."

When Prosecutor David Whittington learned of it, Dobbs said, a protest was lodged with the board.

Whittington objected to what he termed the secrecy of the board's action. In a letter, Whittington vigorously objected to Gregory's release saying his "previous record, narcotics addiction and association with other criminals" offered no possibility of rehabilitation.

Gregory's attorney, state Sen. G. Brynn Hurst, has asked Gov. Orval E. Faubus to void the $1,000 fine but Faubus has not acted.

Gregory and two other men were arrested by Garland County officers in a raid on his ranch home near Hot Springs. He and James A. Wise each received five years, but Wise entered prison sooner and was paroled in March.

J. E. Jones, who got a six-year term, is still in prison.

Gregory was one of 58 convicts approved for parole. Others included Dorothy Ann Trotter of Harrison and Nevell Rollins, a West Memphis Negro, both serving narcotics possession sentences, and Clinton Dotson, who was convicted March 11, 1953, in the slaying of his grandmother in Newton County and sentenced to 15 years imprisonment for second degree murder.

The board recommended four other convicts for executive clemency.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Pardon and Parole Board Wednesday granted 50 paroles, including one for Clinton Dotson, who was convicted March 11, 1953, in Newton County Circuit Court in the slaying of his grandmother.

The board also recommended executive clemency for four convicts, whose names won't be released unless the recommendation is approved.

Among those paroled were three persons convicted of unrelated narcotics violations. They are: Worth Gregory of Hot Springs, Dorothy Ann Trotter of Harrison and Nevell Rollins, a West Memphis Negro.

Westinghouse Next on Price Fixing Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators investigating price fixing in the electrical equipment industry turned their attention today on the Westinghouse Electric Corp.

A federal judge in Philadelphia fined 26 companies and 45 individuals nearly $2 million after they pleaded guilty or no contest to the government's charges. In addition, seven executives were given 30-day jail sentences.

The Senate subcommittee spent about six hours Wednesday questioning Robert Paxton, retiring president of General Electric.

Paxton, contradicting some earlier testimony by others, said, "I've never directed any man to talk prices with a competitor."

He testified that throughout his long career with GE he abhorred "such monkey business" and had repeatedly instructed subordinates "to have no truck" with price-fixing deals.

But Paxton, who took a leave of absence because of ill health in January and will retire officially this month, said he placed too much confidence in those under him and should have quizzed them more closely about their activities.

Fighting in Laos Appears Near End

By DONALD E. HUTH

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The royal government today accepted ex-Premier Souvanna Phouma's invitation to peace talks Friday on the front north of Vientiane.

It was the biggest breakthrough so far in getting major cease-fire and political talks started between the government and pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels, who agreed Wednesday to stop fighting.

Premier Boun Oum said the government will send a military delegation to a point just north of the town of Hin Heup, 50 miles north of Vientiane on the main north-south highway.

Government acceptance of Souvanna's invitation still left unsettled a major point: The government has insisted combat officers of both sides meet in the field to draw up an armistice line and other details of the cease-fire before political leaders meet.

Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, deputy premier and military strongman of Boun Oum's regime, said he was insisting on this point.

The government announced its officers were rebuffed by the rebels when they met on the front 55 miles north of Vientiane Wednesday night. The rebels said all their negotiations would be handled by Souvanna, a self-styled neutralist who appears to be assuming a dominant role in the formation of a new government for Laos.

There were no strong expectations in Vientiane that the dispute would lead to any resumption of the fighting. But the controversy was considered an indication that peace negotiations in the coming weeks will be delayed and stalled on many points.

(In Bangkok, Thailand, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization's council of representatives held a special session on Laos despite signs of decreasing tension. There was no official word on what was discussed at the meeting, the sixth in 11 days.)

Wage Bill Big Lift to JFK's Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's legislative program has been given a tremendous boost by passage of his minimum wage bill after it was nearly throttled in the House.

The measure, cut and trimmed in minor areas in a successful effort to pick up support, emerged from Congress Wednesday with its key provision for extending minimum wage coverage.

The Senate, as expected, approved it resoundingly 64 to 28. The big surprise was in the House, which had twice rejected similar measures. The House approved it 230 to 196.

Hard prodding by the White House and the House Democratic leadership on wavering members, plus concessions written into the bill, combined to give the administration its comeback victory.

The bill, as it goes to the White House, raises the minimum wage for those covered from $1 an hour to 1.15 in four months, and to $1.25 two years later. Its chief provision, over which Congress has been battling for more than a year, deals with new coverage.

Under the bill minimum wage protection will be extended for the first time into the retail and service area, with 3.6 million workers being brought in. Concerns doing $1 million annual business and handling at least $250,000 in goods that cross state lines are covered.

A conservative coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats failed to limit new coverage to the big chain stores operating in more than one state, an approach the House accepted just a month ago and also last session.

The key to winning Southern support was a series of exemptions for specific groups written into the bill during the conference. These removed certain cotton gin employees, tobacco processors, livestock auctioneers and others from coverage.

In the House debate before Wednesday's vote, Republicans branded the Democratic conferees as cynical and unprincipled for their various maneuvers and concessions in bidding for Southern support.

Unexpectedly heavy support also came from Republican ranks as 33, mostly from industrial areas, deserted the GOP leadership and supported the administration.

Dem Factions Seek Legality

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — May 12 has been set for hearing of a suit concerning which of two rival factions is the legal Democratic Committee in Faulkner County.

A group headed by former state Sen. Guy Jones of Conway is suing to have its committee declared the legal one. But a second group, whose chairman is John T. Duckett of Enola, has been recognized by the state Democratic Committee.

The board contends its new plan opens the door for any Negro child who scores in the average range on mental maturity and readiness tests to enter Dollarway if the parents wish, unless the admission is contrary to requirements of a state pupil assignment law.

Negro plaintiffs contend white students do not have to pass a test to be admitted to the school of their choice.

They say the board's plan puts the burden of desegregation on Negro students and their parents rather than on the board, where it belongs.

Henry, after the hearing can accept, reject or modify the board plan.

Theater Owners Name Officers

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — J. T. Hitt of Bontenville has been elected president of the Independent Theater Owners Association of Arkansas at the organization's annual convention here.

Bruce Young of Pine Bluff was named chairman of the board.

PSC Declares Arkla Must Prove Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A member of the Arkansas Public Service Commission said Wednesday that Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. must prove it is entitled to the rate increase which became effective April 1 or refund the money.

J. M. Malone Sr. of the PSC said he was certain the other two members of the commission, Lewis M. Robinson, chairman and John R. Thompson, would agree with him.

Several Arkansas cities have filed protests with the PSC over the 70-cent monthly rate increase in the company's minimum charge. One city, Russellville, withdrew its complaint.

And the Pine Bluff City Council, in a resolution forwarded to Gov. Orval E. Faubus, condemned the commission for the manner in which it handled the increase.

3 Texarkana Boys Held for Burglary

Two of three Texarkana youths, aged 17-19, who were caught inside Dr. R. T. Hairston's cabin at Yellow Creek Monday, have posted $750 bonds for burglary and have been released, Sheriff Jimmie Griffin said today. A third youth is still in jail.

The boys broke into the cabin and stole blankets, quilts, food, dishes and groceries, the sheriff said.

Pollution Bill Asks More Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill for more money to clean up the nation's polluted rivers has been passed by the House and sent to the Senate for almost certain approval.

The bill closely resembles one vetoed last year by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who said the pollution problem was primarily up to states and local communities to solve.

The bill, which follows closely a proposal of President Kennedy, would:

—Boost the maximum federal outlay from $500 million to $1 billion, with a limit of $100 million a year.

—Increase from $250,000 to $800,000 the amount of federal funds that could be provided for any one community; it also would allow communities to join in building sewage treatment plants with federal grants in these combined programs limited to $2.4 million.

—Strengthen the government's power to require communities to undertake anti-pollution measures. Republicans tried to cut down the size of the measure, and require dollar-for-dollar local matching of some federal funds. These amendments were defeated easily.

On final passage the result was 307 to 110 in favor.

The new bill would broaden an anti-pollution act passed in 1959. About $235 million already has been spent under that act.

Dollarway Case Set for Friday

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — U.S. District Judge J. Smith Henley will hear attorneys' arguments in the latest phase of the Dollarway desegregation case at 10 a.m. Friday.

The hearing concerns the Dollarway School Board's desegregation plan submitted last fall after the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals rejected a previous plan as falling short of Supreme Court mandates.

One Negro girl, Dolores York, 6, was admitted to the formerly all-white Dollarway School near Pine Bluff under the old plan last September.

The board contends its new plan opens the door for any Negro child who scores in the average range on mental maturity and readiness tests to enter Dollarway if the parents wish, unless the admission is contrary to requirements of a state pupil assignment law.

Negro plaintiffs contend white students do not have to pass a test to be admitted to the school of their choice.

They say the board's plan puts the burden of desegregation on Negro students and their parents rather than on the board, where it belongs.

Henry, after the hearing can accept, reject or modify the board plan.

No State Wire Tapping Law

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas doesn't have a law against wire tapping, but the attorney general's office said today a 1955 act against "peeping toms" might cover eavesdropping on telephone conversations.

The opinion went to U.S. Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., who wrote that a Senate committee is investigating to see if federal legislation is needed against wiretapping.

The opinion said the Arkansas law hasn't been interpreted yet, but that it might include wire tapping by judicial extension.

Fayetteville Man to Get Award

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Willis Hicketts of Fayetteville, president of the Arkansas Junior Chamber of Commerce, will receive the Community Service Award of the Arkansas Pharmaceutical Association during the pharmacists' annual convention here May 16-17.

Joseph B. Harris Jr. of Fort Smith will be honored as Pharmacist of the Year.

Huge Naval Balloon Goes to Record High

ABOARD AIRCRAFT CARRIER ANTIETAM (AP) — A balloon launched from the deck of this aircraft carrier in the Gulf of Mexico today carried two men to the greatest altitude ever reached by a balloon.

The huge bag carrying two Navy scientists soared past 104,500 feet 2 hours and 11 minutes after launching from the flight deck of the Antietam.

The balloon continued ascending toward its planned maximum altitude of 116,000 feet, almost 22 miles above the earth's surface.

Told by radio that the balloon had exceeded the altitude record, Cmdr. Malcolm Ross, the pilot, commented:

"To one side I can see clear across Florida, and I can see the Atlantic Ocean on the other side of Florida."

"I have a real good look at the Gulf states. I can see New Orleans and I can see the entire Gulf Coast line."

The attempt began from a point about 43 miles southeast of South Pass at the mouth of the Mississippi River. Slight technical difficulties had delayed the launch more than an hour.

The experiment was aimed to take two Navy officers to the highest altitude ever reached by a balloonist — 116,000 feet or almost 22 miles above the earth's surface in a flight lasting 7 to 8 hours.

The balloonists are Cmdr. Malcolm Ross of Washington, the pilot, and Lt. Cmdr. Victor E. Frathcr, medical officer of the Bethesda, Md., Naval Medical Institute, scientific observer.

Cruise Ship Sinks, Six Are Missing

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The skipper of the ill-fated student cruise ship Albatross today credited the refusal of the boys to panic for the fact that 13 survived when a sudden storm sank the vessel in the Gulf of Mexico.

Christopher B. Sheldon of Darlen, Conn., was interviewed by The Associated Press in the state-room of a rescue ship while cruising toward Tampa.

"The crew was very orderly about getting off the ship," he said. "This was the principal reason so many of us got off."

Six of the 19 aboard went down with the Albatross when a subtropical storm broke over the vessel without warning Tuesday and drove her to the bottom in one minute.

Ten of the survivors are boys, ranging in age from 15 to 18. Most are from wealthy families.

Four of the dead were classmates. The others were a cook and Dr. N. Alice Sheldon, wife of the skipper.

The black-hulled Gran Rio, freighter flying the Surinam flag, picked up the survivors 24 hours after the square-rigged brigantine sank. The Gran Rio entered Tampa Bay shortly after dawn today.

David (Tod) Johnston, 17, of Slonington, Conn., was at the wheel when the Albatross was staggered by the blow of the storm.

When the ship started to go over, Philip Le Boutillier, 17, of Perrysburg, Ohio, went to Johnston's aid.

"She went to one side," Tod said. "We thought she would right herself but we had water on deck. We thought she would come back up but she didn't."

Phil said Tod "grabbed me and pulled me out of the wheelhouse and up toward the railing."

The boys said there was little surface wind when the vessel keeled over, but a heavy gust struck the rigging. There was lightning and some rain.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Thirteen survivors of the ill-fated student cruise ship, Albatross, are scheduled to arrive in Tampa today.

L.R. Police Not to Share Reward

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Little Rock police department rejected a share of a $25,000 reward for solution of the city's Labor Day bombings in 1959, city officials said today.

City Manager Anell M. Douthit said he and Police Chief R. E. Glasscock agreed that it would not be good policy for the department to accept money from the reward fund raised by the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce.

A suit filed by four young persons seeking to collect the reward is pending in Pulaski Chancery Court.

Douthit said the police were merely doing their duty in the arrest of five men in connection with the integration-related blasts.

Four of the five men are in prison now and the fifth got a suspended sentence.

The reward claimants testified at the trials.

Connie Harvey Complimented with Shower

At a lovely pre-nuptial courtesy to Miss Connie Harvey, bride-elect of Freddie Max Glaze, the Mesdames Brown Arnold, Hancel Hughes and Dale Davis entertained with a miscellaneous bridal shower on Thursday evening in the private dining room of the Caddo Hotel restaurant, Arkadelphia.

Miss Harvey's chosen colors for her wedding, yellow and white, were used in appointments for the party. She chose a summer cotton frock of yellow embroidered cotton made with a square neck, fitted bodice and gathered skirt and her corsage, a gift of the hostesses, was of tulle and roses.

An arrangement of yellow and white iris graced the mantel and tulle roses flanked with white candles in silver holders were used on the serving table which was covered with an imported cutwork cloth.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Hancel Hughes, the honoree, Mrs. Winston Glaze, mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. Dick Harvey of Prescott, mother of the bride-to-be, her grandmothers, Mrs. C. C. Harvey of Bluff City, Mrs. R. J. Grayson of Prescott, and his grandmother, Mrs. C. M. Hughes of Donaldson. Their corsages were also of roses.

Miss Harvey was assisted in opening her gifts by the Mesdames Sharon Tweedle, Zolane Driggers and her roommate, Gloria Neece kept the gift book. Miss Mary Hardiman assisted with the ribbons.

After the gifts were opened and admired, refreshments of yellow punch, cake squares, mints and nuts were served.

Among the more than fifty guests attending were his aunt, Mrs. Vernon Glaze of Malvern.

Replacement in Suit by the NAACP

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Pulaski Prosecutor John T. Jernigan was named as substituted defendant for J. Frank Holt Tuesday in a lawsuit by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Chancellor Murray O. Reed, who ordered the substitution, said Jernigan's reluctance had delayed the case in which the NAACP is challenging four 1958 acts of the special legislative session.

Original defendants in the suit which was filed in February, 1960 were Holt, prosecutor at the time, former Attorney General Bruce Bennett and county judge Arch Campbell.

Holt, who became attorney general after a Nov. 30 hearing of the case, did not object to replacing Bennett. But Jernigan said he did not voluntarily want to replace Holt as a defendant.

The matter had to be brought before a ruling could be made, Reed said.

The acts which are being challenged are designed to harass the NAACP, officials of the Negro organization contend.

The laws concern powers of county judges and prosecuting attorneys in connection with groups who they judge are interfering with public schools.

Review of the CIA Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today ordered a sweeping review of the work of the Central Intelligence Agency and other government units that dig up information abroad.

Kennedy established a new foreign intelligence advisory board, headed by Dr. James R. Killian Jr. of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The White House described the new group as a reactivation, "under broadened terms of reference," of the board of consultants on foreign intelligence activities set up by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1956.

In creating his own board, Kennedy gave it this assignment:

"To advise the President with respect to the objectives and conduct of the foreign intelligence and related activities of the United States which are required in the interests of foreign policy and national defense and security."

Counties to Pay Vote Expenses

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The 13 counties of the 6th Congressional District must pay the expenses of the special election in which Mrs. Catherine Norrell was named to succeed her late husband, the attorney general's office ruled today.

The opinion went to Pine Bluff City Atty. George Holmes.

Holmes had asked if Pine Bluff was required to pay any of the expense.

Nurses' Association Meets in Hope

A pathologist from Texarkana, Dr. Teitelbaum, spoke to the Prescott District of the Arkansas State Nurses Association Tuesday, May 2 at the Hempstead County Memorial Hospital. He told them about the newer methods of laboratory tests and techniques and their value in making a diagnosis. Besides the members of the organization and their speaker, Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Arlene Frith, laboratory technicians at the Memorial Hospital, were also present. All were served cookies and coffee for refreshments.

Bridal Shower for Edith Rateliff

A bridal shower for Mrs. Edith Rateliff was the main feature of the meeting May 2 of the Supreme Forest Woodman Circle Popular Grove 96. Held in the WOW Hall with Mrs. C. F. Wiggins and Mrs. Leo Hartfield serving as hostesses, the party had irises and roses as floral decorations. The honoree received many lovely and useful gifts. Games were played with prizes going to the following: Mrs. C. G. Tittle, Mrs. H. M. Valentine, Mrs. Connie Ward, Mrs. John Norvell, and Mrs. C. F. Wiggins. The 16 ladies were served coffee, cookies, and mints.

Mrs. Spencer Host to Bridge Club

A local Tuesday Bridge Club met with Mrs. Lloyd Spencer on May 2. Beautiful roses decorated the home where two tables of players included Mrs. C. D. Lester and Mrs. C. C. Boyett as club guests. High scorer for the afternoon was Mrs. R. L. Broach, and second high was made by Mrs. E. J. Whitman. During the afternoon tidbits were served with either coffee or cold drinks.

Coming and Going

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hunt of Partridge, La., and Travis Hunt of Texarkana spent the weekend here with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Thompson Evans, Jr., Mrs. Roy Anderson, and Mrs. S. McDavitt left Thursday for Wichita Falls, Tex., and the wedding of Phil Barr, great-nephew of Mrs. Anderson. Mrs. McDavitt also plans to visit some former school friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Browning of Little Rock were overnight guests Wednesday of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Anderson while en route to Wichita Falls, Tex., to attend the wedding of their grandson, Phil Barr.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Dempsey of Kansas City and Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Rogers of DeQueen are visiting their sister, Mrs. Lalia Pickard and Cathey.

Mrs. F. M. Horton

Mrs. F. M. Horton of Hope was elected president of the Arkansas State Chapter of the P.E.O. Sisterhood at the closing session of the 28th annual state convention Saturday in Fort Smith, Arkansas. She succeeds Mrs. Robert A. Porter of Blytheville.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Marvin Melton of Jonesboro, first vice-president; Mrs. Lester Furr of Fort Smith, second vice-president; Mrs. John Taylor of Clarksville, organizer; Mrs. Richard Steel of Conway, recording secretary; Miss Martha Milburn of Harrison, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Joseph Pendleton of Fayetteville, treasurer. Delegates elected to attend the meeting of the Supreme Chapter, October 2-5, in Washington, D.C., include Mrs. Horton and Mrs. E. P. O'Neal of Hope.

Some 300 delegates and visitors attended this convention. P.E.O. is an international sisterhood interested in developing Christian character and extending educational opportunities to young women. Honor guest of the convention was Mrs. W. M. Van Brunt of Bellevue, Nebraska, third vice-president of Supreme Chapter. Mrs. Van Brunt spoke to the group at the Friday morning session on "Our P.E.O. Heritage", the theme chosen for the entire convention.

A reception honoring Mrs. Van Brunt and the state P.E.O. officers was held Thursday evening following an open meeting. The educational hour at which reports on the P.E.O. projects were given with Mrs. Horton presiding.

The resolution, substituted for a much stronger statement condemning federal aid to parochial and private schools, appealed for "all members to be alert to legislative bills which violate this principle."

Elmer W. Cook of Northfork, W. Va., had proposed the Southern Presbyterian ask Congress to refuse aid "of every nature whatsoever to private denominational and parochial schools."

Before concluding the church's centennial assembly a day ahead of schedule, the commissioners also voted down a proposed merger, approved a committee report stating the National Council of Churches is innocent of charges of Communist infiltration and tabled a proposal to denounce capital punishment.

The merger proposal had been advanced by the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. Its clerk, Eugene Carson Blake, suggested a union of his church, the Episcopal Church, the United Church of Christ, the Methodist Church and any others caring to join.

The Southern Presbyterian commissioners held their church constitution forbids a merger with any others caring to join.

Arkansas Not Affected by Labor Fuss

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas farmers will not be adversely affected by a federal investigation of housing facilities for Mexican farm laborers, state Employment Security Director J. L. Bland said today.

"Those farmers who want Mexican labor will bring their housing up to the minimum standards," Bland said. "Arkansas will get all the Mexican labor it wants."

The federal Bureau of Employment Security is investigating housing conditions on Arkansas farms. A 10-man team began the inquiry in mid-April.

Federal officials said the bureau has received a number of complaints about Arkansas housing for the laborers.

Director Robert C. Goodwin said no Mexican labor should be approved for Arkansas "until we have an individual certification on the housing and are sure that the housing meets minimum standards."

Bland did not seem upset by the word from Washington.

He apparently feels farmers will spend whatever is necessary for housing if they want Mexican workers.

"I don't know where these protests came from," Bland said. "The Mexicans didn't complain. They're happy."

East Arkansas farmers depend heavily on Mexican labor for cultivating and harvesting the cotton crop.

Bland said a 1961 contract for Mexican labor has not yet been negotiated with the Mexican government and no assignment of workers to various states has yet been made.

The state ESD handles placement of Mexican labor through branch offices in Blytheville, West Memphis, Forrest City, Helena and Jonesboro.

Whereabouts of 7th Fleet Is Secret

By A. L. MCINTYRE

SINGAPORE (AP)—The U.S. 7th Fleet, its exact whereabouts secret, remained in Southeast Asian waters today on its announced mission of deterring Communist aggression.

There were reports that the aircraft carrier Coral Sea was steaming northward toward the Gulf of Siam, near Communist-threatened Laos and South Viet Nam. U.S. Navy officials said only that the carrier is heading for her home base.

The fleet has just concluded its part in the six-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization military exercise "Pony Express" with landings in the wild jungle country of North Borneo.

With 6,000 American and British marines and Australian infantrymen, 60 ships and 20,000 navy personnel it was the biggest military operation ever held by SEATO.

In Bangkok SEATO Secretary General Pote Sarasin told newsmen after a SEATO council emergency session—its fifth in 10 days—he is more optimistic about prospects for a Laos cease-fire.

Officials of Thailand's pro-Western government maintained an air of guarded optimism watching for any sign that the rebels may drag out cease-fire talks and delay a proposed international peace conference for Laos.

W. Averell Harriman President Kennedy's roving ambassador arrived in Phnom Penh today for talks about Laos with Prince Norodom Sihanouk Cambodian chief of state. He will leave Thursday for Bangkok on route home.

Harriman told reporters "It is our hope that a basis can be established for a completely neutral government in Laos and a cease-fire may soon come there."

"There can be no real cease-fire until fighting is stopped in all sectors," Harriman said.

Reporter Finishes Term in Jail

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Vi Murphy, Colorado Springs reporter, who served 30 days in jail rather than disclose a news source, finished her term today. She said she would do it over again if necessary.

Mrs. Murphy, 35, left the county jail with her husband, Thelmer, an attorney and the business manager of the Colorado Springs Gazette Telegraph where she is employed.

She carried a box of nearly 300 letters which she said came from all parts of the world and supported her position.

Royalty Delayed by Red Carpet

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—Arrival of Queen Elizabeth II on the Italian mainland was delayed by a yard of red carpet today.

The red carpet had been stretched across the pier to where officials had calculated the gangway of the royal yacht Britannia would come down.

The gangway fell one yard short. The carpet could not be moved because it had been nailed down.

Aides raced to the pier with a one-yard piece of carpet to fill the gap.

Woman Sentenced to Three Years

MENA ARK. (AP)—Polk Circuit Judge Bobby steel imposed a three-year prison sentence on Mrs. Sharon Sellers of Jackson, Tenn., after a jury found her guilty of obtaining property through false pretense Wednesday.

No appeal was made of the verdict which was returned after 90 minutes of deliberation by the jury of 10 men and two women.

Mrs. Sellers, 22, who was also accused of issuing worthless checks totaling several hundreds of dollars, testified that she was forced into the crimes by three male accomplices.

Charles Langford, one of the trio, is jailed here awaiting trial on similar charges. The others are being held in Alice, Tex., on worthless check charges and probably won't be tried here.

During the era of piracy, Port Royal, Jamaica, was known as the wickedest city in the world.

DOROTHY DIX

The Light That Lies in a Woman's Eyes

BY HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I am a university student who plans to continue his studies abroad. Until I met the beautiful and popular girl to whom I am now engaged, I thought all knowledge was encompassed in books. When I met this girl she was in love with a fellow whom she had been dating four years. She continues to see him though professing no longer to care. I trust her. He only holds a menial job. I have an excellent future. She is ambitious for the man she marries.

There is something else which bothers me. Twice she has called me by the name of a very attractive married man. We plan to marry this summer. We plan to worship the ground I walk on. If so, why is she interested in other men? I have already slapped her in a jealous rage. She is a wonderful hostess and could be helpful in my career. Do we have any chance for happiness? —In Earnest

Dear In Earnest: Deeds speak louder than words. You're evidently engaged to a flirt who, while professing to love you, keeps other boys guessing. If you don't dominate a woman of this type, she'll dominate you. Marriage won't change her. It seems to me that there is too much emphasis on what you can do for her and she for you and too little on a deep and abiding love. Don't rush matters. The problem may settle itself by summer. Meanwhile, give her plenty of rope.

Dear Helen: This is being written on behalf of myself and other students in my class. It is proper for a teacher to call us idiots, dumb - bunnies, hill - bilities and numbskulls? Is it right for the teacher to humiliate us publicly until we are reduced to tears? Is it fair for this same teacher to say, "I see you're wearing your brains on your feet today?" —Disgusted Student

Dear Disgusted: A real teacher assumes his students have brains. My former husband, the late John Erskine, used this formula in teaching. His students, almost without exception, justified the assumption by becoming outstanding in whatever profession they followed. Show this letter to your teacher.

Dear Helen: I feel ashamed because my wife is working to put me through university, yet I cannot concentrate on my studies. I am infatuated with an attractive coed who flirts with me. I have confessed the situation to my wife who knows the girl's mother. I wish I didn't have to see the girl but it can't be avoided. Her mother reads your column. What to do? —Frustrated

Dear Frustrated: As if your wife's help weren't enough, you sell her short by letting this flirt lure you off the straight and narrow. Stop making sheep's eyes and start working to pay your own way. Wash dishes, scrub floors and study too. Others have done it and amounted to something. Be a man!

Winner in Deer Contest Announced

"I guess my name was pretty good," said Mary Gwen Allen of P.O. Box 254, Hope, Ark., when informed by her Billy and Ruth dealer, Lehman Auto and Home Supply, that she had won a prize in the 1960 Name Santa's Littlest Deer contest. "It's fun to name an animal because you can pretend that it's your own, and then decide what you'd call him. Santa's deer was so cute on the front cover of the 1960 Billy and Ruth Book that he almost seemed alive."

Mary Gwen, who attends Garland School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Allen. She is interested in reading books and is 8 years old.

The deer naming contest was held on a national basis and sponsored locally by Lehman Auto and Home Supply, distributor of the Billy and Ruth Toy Books.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Attentions From Married Men."

Arkansans Against Minimum Wage Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both Arkansas senators and four of the six representatives voted against passage of the compromise minimum wage bill which got final approval Wednesday.

Favoring the measure were Reps. Wilbur Mills and Jim Trimble who voted with the House majority in passing the bill 230-196. Opposing it were Reps. Dale Alford, E. C. Gathings, Oren Harris and Catherine Norrell.

Sens. J. W. Fulbright and John L. McClellan also opposed the bill but it passed the Senate by a vote of 64-28.

The bill raises the present $1 an hour minimum wage to $1.25 over a 28-month period. It also extends coverage to an additional 3,620,000 workers.

Marcello was deported to Guatemala as an undesirable alien by U.S. immigration authorities in March. But the Guatemalan government said he was not entitled to live here since his birth certificate was false. The certificate purported to show he was a Guatemalan citizen.

Marcello was told of the deportation order by a court police officer at the hotel where he and his family have been living.

Nothing in the order specified any country to which Marcello or his family should go.

Fighting In Laos

held in the village of Ban Namone, in no man's land 55 miles north of Vientiane.

But he said if government representatives could not go to Ban Namone, they should proceed to Hin Heup, five miles further south.

He proposed the talks cover political as well as military questions. The government announced that it was sending only a military delegation appeared to leave some disagreement over the issues to be discussed.

The ex-premier said in a radio broadcast the conference would include representatives of his "neutralist government," the royal government and Pathet Lao, the pro-Communist guerrillas.

Negotiators should first consider the question of forming a coalition government, he said, and appointment of a Laos delegation to attend the 14-nation international conference on Laos scheduled for May 12 in Geneva.

(In Phnom Penh, Cambodia, the government announced it will not participate in the conference because of Lon Nol King Savang Vathana's statement that Laos alone must settle its own problems. The information ministry said: Cambodia "in conformity with its policy of neutrality" would respect the king's wishes. Cambodia originally proposed the conference.

Both the United States and Britain have announced they will not attend either unless they are convinced the fighting in Laos has soured, who on his recent tour of Europe and Communist Asia allied himself openly with the Soviet Union and Red China, appeared by far the strongest contender to head any coalition government. The pro-Communist fighting forces supporting him held a good portion of the country and have held the military initiative conclusively for several months.

Government and rebel officers were to meet today to iron out details of the cease-fire. The meeting was planned for an area on the front north of Vientiane, with both sides to pull back four miles from the meeting place. Gen. Phoumi said there had been some disagreement over the exact site but indicated it was not considered serious.

With an end to the shooting war in prospect, Vientiane's right-wing officials and Western diplomats braced for a fight on the political front to keep Laos from going Communist.

"Now we really have to go to work, and it's not going to be easy," said one Western diplomat.

Boun Oum, 57, easy-going premier backed by the West, has said he is willing to step aside in the interests of peace. Gen. Nosavan, a staunch anti-Communist, has bitterly opposed Souvanna because of his collaboration with the Reds, but his bargaining position has been considerably lessened by the reverses his troops have suffered in recent months.

India Welcomes $1 Billion From U.S.

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian government circles expressed great appreciation today for an American offer of a billion dollars aid to India during the next two years.

The offer is contingent upon a matching amount being raised by others helping India finance her five-year development plan—Britain, Germany, Canada, Japan and the World Bank.

Reports reaching New Delhi indicate Germany fell far short of what was expected in aid offers at a meeting last week in Washington. The meeting adjourned until May 31.

A reliable source confirmed the size of the American offer, which was based on expected congressional approval of President Kennedy's foreign aid program.

Two Charged in Gun Battle

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — A former Hot Springs policeman and another man were bound over for grand jury action today on charges stemming from a gun-fight Jan. 14 in a lonely area on Cedar Mountain.

Jack Higby, 29, the former officer, pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault with intent to kill.

Everett Barentine, 28, entered no plea to a similar charge.

Both waived preliminary hearings before Municipal Judge W. R. Mitchell and were released on $1,000 bond.

The cases had been postponed several times. Officers said the shooting began after Barentine found his wife in a car with Higby. Higby was wounded in the chest and stomach.

Ice Cream Wagons Must Be Silent

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The ice cream wagons can stay, but their bells and music have got to go.

Police Chief Ray Vick warned Wednesday that vendors using bells or music to advertise their ice cream wagons will face arrest and a $25 fine.

Vick acted on a petition by 90 mothers, who claimed the sounds were "hypnotizing" children away from dinner tables and into the streets. The petition reminded Vick that the city has antinnoise ordinances.

This isn't the first time the bells have been silenced. A similar protest muffled them two years ago.

Washington county, Arkansas is said to have had at one time, more educational institutions of higher learning than any other county in the United States.

uled to dock in Tampa today.

Six of their companions, including the wife of the skipper, were missing, apparently carried to the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico in the sinking ship.

Ten of the survivors are teenage boys, ranging in age from 15 to 17. Most are from wealthy families.

Four of the dead were their classmates. The other two were a cook and Dr. N. Alice Sheldon, wife of the square-jawed brigantines captain, Prof. Christopher B. Sheldon of Darien, Conn.

A sudden, subtropical storm broke on the ship without warning about 9 a. m. Tuesday. Sheldon said the ship sank in less than a minute.

Six were trapped below decks. The wind and waves ripped the ship's lifeboats away from the doomed vessel and the survivors managed to reach them in safety.

However, their ordeal was just starting. They spent all that day and a storm tossed night before the Dutch freighter Grand Rio picked them up.

The Albatross, one of the last of her type to sail the seas, was used as a floating classroom. She was headed for the Bahama Islands when the storm wrote a finish to her voyage about 180 miles northwest of Key West.

Students aboard the Albatross combined a course in seamanship with concentrated academic lessons.

Four Coast Guard aircraft and several search boats combed the area of the sinking but find no bodies or wreckage. The search was called off Wednesday night because of darkness.

The Sheldons bought the Albatross from novelist Ernest K. Gann. He wrote the book, "Twilight for the Gods," a novel about the disappearance of brigantines from the high seas.

Other than Mrs. Sheldon, whose missing and presumed dead are: George Ptacnik, 30, of California, the ship's cook.

Spahn Almosts Gets Second No-Hitter

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Warren Spahn followed up his no-hitter of last Friday with a two-hit, 4-1 decision over Los Angeles Wednesday night, walking just two and striking out nine for his 29th career victory and first over the Dodgers in three years. San Francisco beat the Chicago Cubs 8-4 and regained the National League lead when St. Louis spilled Pittsburgh 3-1.

Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia 9-3 in the other NL game.

New York beat Minnesota 7-3 and tied Detroit for the American League lead when the Tigers lost 5-4 at Washington. Cleveland defeated the Chicago White Sox 4-3, Kansas City beat Boston 9-8 in 10 innings and Los Angeles knocked off Baltimore 7-6.

The Dodgers broke Spahn's shutout string at 11 2-3 innings on Gilliam's hit, which fell at the feet of converted infielder Mel Roach in left field. The double scored Charlie Smith, who had opened with a walk and then stayed put while Spahn fanned John Roseboro and losing right-hander Stan Williams (1-2).

The Cardinals, shut out for 14 innings, jumped on Vinegar Bend Mizell for all three runs in the fifth inning. Bob Gibson won it, with Lindy McDaniel's mop-up relief after Rocky Nelson's homer broke up a four-hit shutout in the eighth.

A three-run seventh, with two runs unearned, broke a 3-3 tie for the Giants. Willie McCovey's single drove in the deciding run and tagged rookie Jack Curtis with the defeat in his first decision. Billy O'Dell (1-1) was the winner, relieving Mike McCormick in the first inning after the young lefty suffered a gashed lip when hit by Don Zimmer's bouncer.

The Reds made it four in a row, three over the Phils, with a two-run fifth off Johnny Buzhardt (0-2). Jim Maloney (1-1) won it with relief by Bill Henry after Clay Dalrymple's three-run home run in the eighth.

Atlanta Gets Victory Over Little Rock

By VERNON BUTLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Undoubtedly the reddest face in Nashville today belongs to Jerry Lock, ace relief pitcher of the Birmingham Barons.

Lock, who turned 23 only Tuesday, strode out of the Barons bullpen Wednesday night in a tense situation. Nashville had tied the score 8-8 in a Southern Association encounter with Birmingham, and the Vols had runners on first and third with two out.

It was a setting made to order for Lock, normally one of the most effective rally-stoppers in the league. But the luckless young Tennesseean from Dyersburg obviously wasn't ready for the emergency this time. He threw one pitch. It raised a cloud of dust around home plate. The ball skidded past catcher John Sullivan, and Billy Joe Davidson raced home with the run that made Nashville a 9-8 winner.

Shreveport halted a losing skid at nine games by trouncing the Mobile Bears 7-3 while the rest of the league was dividing double-headers. Atlanta whipped Little Rock 5-1 in their opener, but the Braves won the second in easy fashion 8-1. Macon shaded Chattanooga 5-4 in eight innings in their scheduled seven-inning first game. The Lookouts won the nightcap 4-0 on a four-hitter by lefty Bob Milo.

First Round of Pay TV Hearing

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The first round in the pay TV battle will be aired at a public hearing here May 15. Public Service Commission Chairman Lewis M. Robinson said Wednesday.

Parties in the hearing are Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and Midwest Video Corp. of Little Rock.

Midwest is seeking to have the telephone company forced to install necessary equipment needed to convey pay TV into homes of Midwest customers in Little Rock.

However the telephone company has asked the PSC to require Midwest to make a deposit in the event the venture fails and also to state specifically what equipment is required.

But before the hearing can be held, Robinson said, the PSC must decide whether it has jurisdiction in the case.

An intervention filed by the Independent Theater Owners of Arkansas and Rowley United Theaters Inc. claims the Federal Communications Commission is the proper authority.

Ft. Smith Plans Plant Dedication

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Dedication ceremonies for the Ohio Rubber Company's new $3 million molded rubber products plant will be held here today.

Among the speakers will be Gov. Orval E. Faubus, Reps. Dale Aford and Dim Trimble and Milo J. Marsh, president of the company.

The plant, which officials predict will double in size within five years, will employ 400 persons. The building covers 200,000 square feet.

Ohio Rubber is a subsidiary of Eagle-Picher Co. of Ohio.

An open house with a guided tour through the plant facilities is scheduled for today and Friday.

Contract Let on Capitol Work

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Secretary of State Nancy Hall said Tuesday the contract for repairing damage to the state capitol dome by last week's thunderstorm had been awarded to Herman Carthy, a Little Rock contractor.

The initial damage estimate is $25,000, but Mrs. Hall said she thought the final amount would be higher.

"We can't know anything for sure until we hear from the St. Louis firm that manufactures stained glass," Mrs. Hall said.

No bids were taken on the project because the damage is insured. However the contract must be approved by the insurance company.

Many windows and the stained glass domes of both the Senate and House chambers were damaged by the storm. Office equipment also suffered heavy damage.

Checks Civil Rights Violation Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department's Civil Rights Division is checking a complaint by D. E. Birdsell that his rights were violated when he was taken from jail at Pine Bluff, Ark., to Montgomery, Ala.

Specifically, a department spokesman said today, Birdsell complained he was denied the right to petition for habeas corpus.

Earlier this year, the spokesman said, Birdsell complained that when he was extradited he was denied a chance to appear before the governor of Arkansas. "We checked this out," the spokesman said, "and found nothing to it."

STUDENTS SEE U.S.

HONOLULU (AP) — Thirty six Japanese students from Tokyo's Keio Junior High School visited Honolulu for a first-hand look at the America they knew before only from textbooks.

The group is on a tour of Hawaii and California during spring vacation.

They will observe American teaching methods in California schools.

Crossett Hires a New Coach

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP) — Former Crossett High School star athlete Murray Elton was named Wednesday to be junior football coach for the school next fall.

Elton, who lettered at the University of Arkansas in 1951 and 1952, has been head basketball coach and junior football coach at Smackover High School the past four years.

UA Track Team Sets Records

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — The University of Arkansas led an assault on stadium records in a triangular track meet here, setting five new marks at the Springfield State field despite rain.

Arkansas won the meet with 73 points. Pittsburgh, Kan., State had 66 5-6 and Springfield State 30 1-6. The Razorbacks' Jack Nelson set two records with a 4:19.1 clocking in the mile and a 9:20.0 time in the two-mile. Ralph Brodie set a 120-yard high hurdle standard of 14.7 and Gary McDonald posted a record 48.7 in the 440-yard run.

Brodie and McDonald then combined with Ken Blankenship and Gary Brown to set a 42.3 mark in the 440-yard relay.

Pittsburg State set three other records, in the mile relay, javelin and pole vault. Arkansas was just a tenth second off Pittsburg's 3:18.0 clocking in the mile relay.

Just How Far Will Russia Go in Cuba

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

The Castro regime—in which Fidel now seems more figurehead than ruler—probably rushed to proclaim itself part of the world Communist bloc in order to claim Soviet protection against any future U.S. moves.

President Kennedy has told the allies of the United States that Washington will intervene—going it alone if necessary—to prevent Communist penetration of the Western Hemisphere, regardless of the implicit perils.

The Havana government now says Cuba is a "Socialist" state in the Soviet sense of the word. The big question: How much is Premier Khrushchev willing to risk to protect a self-proclaimed Communist regime thousands of miles from world Communist frontiers?

Would Khrushchev risk starting World War III in the Western Hemisphere?

A U. S. statement Tuesday, blasting Castro's regime as more Communist than the rest of the Iron Curtain satellites, may be a prelude to additional Washington moves against the Havana regime—perhaps to a total embargo on shipments of all goods to Cuba, perhaps also to bringing pressure on other members of the Organization of American States (OAS) to take action against Havana.

These moves would hurt the Havana government. The Soviet Union is not in a position to supply Cuba with all its food, medicine and other everyday needs. A break in relations with other Latin American states could deprive the Castristas of their nests of espionage, agitation and subversion throughout much of the Western Hemisphere. Some Latin-American governments, battered beyond endurance by Castro agents, broke relations months ago, on their own.

But, by Castro's words, a Socialist—meaning Communist—state already exists in the Western Hemisphere.

The bearded one and his cohorts seem to be buying safety in exchange for turning Cuba over to the Communist party, lock, stock and barrel. This has been one direct result of the ill-timed invasion.

From now on, it can be assumed, the Communist party will run the show in Havana, with Fidel as front man useful for whipping up support from anti-Yankee fanatics and the unlettered masses. But the Communists with an ear for Kremlin admonitions, are likely to be cautious. They are not likely to put Khrushchev in the uncomfortable position of having to make the terrible decision—war or peace.

If the party entrenches itself withstands outside pressures, Fidel will be in danger. It is a matter of Communist history.

Highway Bids to Be Opened

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Bids on eight road and bridge projects totaling $2,225,000 will be opened May 24 by the Arkansas Highway Commission. Harry W. Parkin, chairman, said Tuesday.

Parkin said the bid openings will be one of the smallest in recent months.

Bids on radio equipment for the Highway Department will also be opened at that time.

Changes in U.S. Foreign Policy Seen

WASHINGTON (Special) — High administration officials indicated at a foreign-policy conference just concluded here that the President is planning at least three major changes in this nation's defense policies.

These changes, the officials made clear, would materially increase the cost of the United States' defense establishment, already by far the costliest item in our staggering annual budget.

They hoped that some compensating adjustments would save enough money to keep defense costs from getting unbearably high.

The first major change contemplated, officials said, was a shift of our large, strategic weapons to less vulnerable, "more survivable" types.

Mobile missiles will be favored in the future, they said. For example, increased emphasis will be placed on the submarine-based Polaris and the land-based Minuteman, scattered throughout the world in widely dispersed installations.

In addition, the "alert status" of the Strategic Air Command's B-47 and B-52 bombers is being raised to 15 minutes. In case of a surprise attack, officials said, at least half our fleet of heavy bombers could get off the ground to meet the enemy's sudden strike.

The second major change will be a stepped-up effort to ensure that the military will continue to be responsive to civilian control in time of crisis.

There will be no use of nuclear weapons without the president's personal authorization.

Every effort will be made to keep open the lines of communication with the military "in the field." Alternate command posts, to be used in case of emergency, are being set up in the air and at sea.

The third expected innovation is a general beefing-up of non-nuclear conventional forces. We will acquire many more troop-transport planes, capable of carrying men to any spot in the world to stamp out "brush-fire wars."

And most significant of all, in some officials' opinion, will be a development of "special forces," trained to excel in nonconventional guerrilla warfare, a fighting technique which has been most rewarding for the Communists.

The administration hopes to keep the military budget fairly stable at about $44 billion a year, even while instituting these changes, officials said.

Two principal compensating adjustments are in the works.

First, some obsolete weapons systems will be sharply cut back. Among these were named the huge B-70 bomber and the nuclear-powered plane. Both these machines are thought to have too little practical military capability to justify the tremendous expense which they would entail.

The administration is hoping that massive congressional resistance to these reductions will not materialize.

The other major proposed retrenchment is the abandonment of hundreds of bases and installations all over the country, to be accomplished gradually over a period of two or three years.

This move, officials, felt, would undoubtedly generate a great deal of local opposition from the affected communities. But they hope that most potential opponents will subordinate their limited interests to the general good.

In the decade starting 100 years ago, the City of Little Rock tripled its population.

JFK Going Through a Trial Period

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy, winner of the presidency by the smallest popular vote in history, is still going through his trial period.

By his own actions he has added to his problem and made it extra painful. He must do two things, both intimately related, for success:

1. He must, because of the narrow election margin, win broad popular support and confidence.
2. To win it, he must make decisions which are right in the sense that they succeed and have public approval.

After only three months in office, with his popularity mounting, he permitted the Cuban invasion which became a disaster.

It shook confidence in his judgment. A president so new in office can't afford many big mistakes. The Cuban affair was a big one.

Now he must overcome this setback and, as a result of it, work even harder at winning confidence in himself. This makes his total job that much tougher.

There were two basic mistakes on Cuba:

1. The aides upon whom he had to depend in the Cuban affair did a sloppy, poorly thought-out and miserably executed job.
2. Kennedy himself did nothing to prepare public opinion for the Cuban operation, which was a drastic step in American foreign policy.

He could have given an explanation on TV, but he didn't. He could have done more at his news conferences, but he didn't do that, either.

He did issue a lengthy, so-called "white paper" denouncing Communist influence in Cuba. This was good for specialists but probably too long and detailed for most newspaper readers.

The whole bungled Cuban adventure raised a natural question: If a relatively small matter like this can be so thoroughly botched up, what can we expect in a critical situation with a first-rate power like Russia?

The simple fact was the United States was involved. The Kennedy administration even made hash in its explanations of what went wrong.

The administration has never made a public explanation. Various members of it gave various explanations which not only could not be attributed to them directly but in some instances contradicted one another.

While Kennedy takes full responsibility for the fiasco, it is known he's thoroughly angry at some of his key men who gave him bad advice.

But, since he seems to have no intention of revealing any more than is already known, and what is known is confusing, he will have to bear full responsibility.

Most likely this one episode by itself will recede in public memory and, by careful leadership in the months ahead, Kennedy may come out of this without bad damage.

Even so, he now has to be extra careful about every move he makes, at home or abroad.

If his popularity dips because of lessened confidence in him, his troubles with Congress will multiply until his leadership at home is truly jeopardized.

If he makes any more mistakes in foreign affairs the American allies' confidence will be shaken and the self-confidence of communism in dealing with him will be infinitely, perhaps even dangerously, increased.

Will Return to Oklahoma School

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Pitt McGee, the high school basketball star who came here from Oklahoma for his senior year, will go back to Oklahoma for college.

McGee said Monday he had told Hank Iba, head coach at Oklahoma State University, that he would enroll there in September.

The 6-4, 195-pound shooting and rebounding ace moved here from Marshall High School in Oklahoma City after a junior year in which he averaged 19 points per game.

For Fort Smith, a defensive-minded team, he averaged 11.4. That's high for the type of ball-control offense the Grizzlies play. He scored 286 points and hit 43 per cent of his floor shots.

Judge Takes School Case Jurisdiction

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An announcement of the assumption of jurisdiction in the Little Rock school integration case by federal district judge Gordon E. Jones was announced Tuesday in a letter from Young to Wiley A. Branton, Pine Bluff Negro attorney.

The decision came after a conference between Young and two other federal judges, J. Smith Bentley, who asked not to be given jurisdiction, and John E. Miller, who presided over the case most of last year.

It was under Miller that a challenge by Negroes of the manner in which the Little Rock School Board was using the pupil placement law was dismissed.

But the decision was overturned by the 8th U.S. District Court of Appeals in St. Louis which ordered the case returned to the district court and urged positive action by the school board.

No new date has been set for rehearing of the case.

Young said copies of the letter to Branton were made available to the school board.

A Few Facts in World of Science

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A benefit from games, freedom-loving fish, and germs that like radiation are on the week's science agenda:

Dividend from Games

In table tennis, a little ball can travel at speeds estimated up to 100 miles an hour or more. Skilled players rely on concentrated watching and trained reflexes to make their return shots.

"There is no time for the brain to give an order," Dr. Andrew Gal, a tournament player who was born in Hungary, writes in Medical Tribune.

As a dividend from this kind of sport, the reflexive or automatic response could be useful in everyday life, he says. For example, a good player is apt to be quicker and more assured in meeting a sudden crisis while driving an automobile.

Radiation Resistance

Germs that laugh at radiation are being studied for clues to the mechanism of radiation resistance and how to protect other living things from deadly rays.

These germs turned up in 1955 during tests aimed at preserving meat and other foods by ionizing radiation. Some bits of meat still spoiled, and were found to harbor the resistant bacteria. The germs were able to survive 10,000 times as much radiation as a human being can. They don't cause any disease, and are easily killed by heat. The germs now have been found to be a new, distinct species, and tentatively have been named Micrococcus radiodurans, says Dr. A. W. Anderson, bacteriologist at Oregon State University.

Conviction of Negro Set Aside

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Supreme Court today set aside the manslaughter conviction of Lewis Lloyd Anderson, a Negro minister of Selma, Ala., who complained that members of his race were systematically excluded from trial and grand juries in Dallas County, Ala.

The court's action was announced in a brief unsigned order which cited three earlier decisions in other cases involving racial discrimination in selection of juries.

There was nothing to indicate that the court's vote was other than unanimous.

Anderson got a 10-year jail sentence on the manslaughter conviction. His automobile struck and killed Tom Reese, Negro, on Jan. 20, 1959. Prosecution witnesses testified Anderson was driving between 60 and 70 miles an hour and his car hit another car before it ran down Reese.

Mrs. Norrell Finds Things Different

Arkansans in Washington
By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Catherine D. Norrell, Arkansas' newest House member, and President Kennedy agree that the problems on running an office look a lot different from the inside than from the outside.

They arrived at this mutual conclusion on Mrs. Norrell's second day in her new job when she visited briefly with the President at a White House coffee for a group of congressmen.

Kennedy, she related, asked how she liked being a member of Congress.

She replied that she liked it fine but that things appeared a lot different to her as an occupant of an office than they did when she was outside.

Kennedy, she said, nodded his head and agreed.

Elaborating, Mrs. Norrell said that as a congressional wife she was quite familiar with the office and its problems but that the perspective was different once the full responsibility was squarely on your own shoulders.

She said that when it comes to casting a vote—as she had to do her very first day—the responsibility weighs considerably heavier.

"It's not quite the same watching someone else do it as it is doing it yourself," she said.

Mrs. Norrell is slightly handicapped by the fact that she comes into the House four months after the session started and at a time when many of the issues have been discussed and hashed over by the other members formally and informally.

But she also has the advantage of knowing most of the members and their wives because of her two years as president of the Congressional Club.

"I think that in the first two or three days virtually every House member, Republican and Democrat, looked me up to greet me," she said. "They already look upon me as a member of the family and have adopted a sort of protective attitude. It's wonderful."

A shrewd politician in her own right, Mrs. Norrell is feeling her way cautiously, taking things a step at a time.

Generally, she said, she expects to follow along the policy of her husband, the late Rep. W. F. Norrell, D., who was of a conservative nature.

She hasn't yet introduced a bill but said her first one probably will be one which Norrell introduced several times — one calling for equal rights for women.

Right now, she said, she is trying to catch up on accumulated correspondence and constituent problems that have piled up since Norrell's death in February.

As an example of her political sagacity, she declined to state in advance her House committee choice—thus avoiding embarrassment to anyone if she didn't get first choice.

Likewise, she has declined comment on her intentions in the 1962 election other than to say she would support legislation which might save Arkansas one or both of the House seats it is slated to lose because of population declines.

Unless there is some change in the situation Mrs. Norrell, if she desires to seek reelection, must run against Rep. Oren Harris, D.

At the White House coffee for the congressmen, Mrs. Norrell was taken in tow by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

He met her as she came in, she reported, chatted with her, introduced her around and, when Kennedy came in a little later, took her over as the first to be introduced.

As a prized souvenir, she had her picture taken with Kennedy and Johnson.

Mrs. Norrell is the fourth woman Arkansas has sent to Congress — the third to the House. She is the first Arkansas woman in Congress since 1945 when Sen. Hattie Caraway, D., retired.

Arkansas women serving in the House prior to Mrs. Norrell were Mrs. William A. Oldfield, Batesville, and Mrs. Effiegene Wingo, De Queen. Both succeeded their husbands.

Mrs. Oldfield was elected in January, 1929, to serve both the remaining few weeks of her husband's term in the 70th Congress and for a full two-year term in the 71st Congress.

Mrs. Wingo was elected in November 1930 to complete her husband's term in the 71st Congress and to a two-year term in the 72nd.

BOLTON, England (AP) — A flash fire swept through a fifth-floor jazz and drinking club early today, causing the deaths of 11 men and 8 women, all in their late teens or early 20s.

King Hussein to Take 2nd Wife

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein has announced the 20-year-old daughter of a British army colonel on his staff will be his second wife.

A national holiday was proclaimed today in the Hashemite kingdom in honor of the monarch's engagement to the English girl who has become a Moslem and has taken the name of Mona el Hussein.

The romance was a closely guarded secret until Hussein, 25, announced his engagement in a broadcast to the nation Monday night. Her father, Col. W. P. Gardiner, is a technical expert with the Royal Jordanian Engineers.

School Move Protested by Landowners

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Property owners protesting a change in the status of the all-white Rightsell School would prefer an integrated school to an all-Negro one, an attorney says.

U. A. Gentry, who represents the protesting residents, said Monday the property owners felt an all-Negro school would damage land values.

A petition prepared by the protesters conceded the School Board's power to change the school from white to Negro but said, "we sincerely question your right to do so."

It added, "If integration must come, let it be effected impartially on all lines."

Gentry advised the property owners they might be able to win their case in a federal court. But he said this would ally them with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which has protested the change as an alleged move to preserve segregation. And he said he found the idea of such an alliance "distasteful."

The board has taken no final action to change the school's status, but in assigning teachers for next year it transferred Negro teachers to Rightsell.

AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Gosh," you say enviously, "I wish I had a chance to get on one of those audience participation shows. Look at all the loot they get—and I could do as well as any of those people."

Well, maybe you could. But maybe you'd tighten up with stage fright so serious you'd have a hard time remembering your own name. Or maybe you'd become so exhilarated by the limelight you would become a hysterical showoff.

Before those maybes have a chance to manifest themselves, there's the first problem: Getting the chance to be on the show. Undoubtedly the best way is to write in for tickets to attend the show.

Contestants for "The Price Is Right" are chosen from the studio audience. A member of the production staff instructs anyone who would like to be on the show to wait after the program. The ones who linger are interviewed and the men and women contestants you see are selected from them.

That also is the system used by "Play Your Hunch," "Say When," and "Number, Please."

"What's My Line?" guests are often men or women who have written to the program, stating their occupations and enclosing pictures of themselves.

The way contestants are chosen is usually decided by the type of game played. Contestants for "To Tell the Truth," for one, are usually found by the producers of the show, who watch newspapers and magazines for likely candidates as the truthful player. Then they search out amusing or off-beat "side characters," as the other two are called.

Producers of "Video Village" have two employees who do nothing but look around bus terminals, railroad stations and department stores for interesting looking contestants.

Recommended tonight: "Thriller," NBC 9-10 (EDT) — "Good imagination," about a book dealer solving a mystery through his knowledge of literature; Red Skelton Show, CBS, 9:30-10 — "Appleby's Castle," with Marilyn Maxwell.

Tough to Pick Week's Meat Menu

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Housewives who use the "economy-miney-mo" method of selecting meat for Sunday dinner will have a tough time this week-end.

Not only are there a wide variety of types of meat marked down as "specials" but there also is an unusually broad range of cuts available in most types of meat. Beef, pork, lamb, veal, turkey, chickens and fish are on tap at both expensive and bargain levels.

In beef, the spread runs from chuck roast (as low as 39 cents a pound in the New York metropolitan area) through round roast to standing rib roasts and porterhouse steaks.

Pork cuts on sale include fresh hams in the East, loin roast in the Middle West and Far West and smoked ham in the East. Pork chops are down 4 to 10 cents a pound in the same areas.

Fryers also are reduced 2 to 9 cents a pound in New England, the middle Atlantic region, South and Far West this week.

Eggs work lower by 2 to 4 cents a dozen in many places.

Outstanding bargains among vegetables are less noticeable this week.

Best are snap beans, carrots, Chinese cabbage, cucumbers, kale, leeks, large-sized new Texas onions green peas, old crop potatoes, smaller new crop potatoes and yellow, straight-necked squash.

Good buys are beets, broccoli, fava beans (a king-sized variety of the more common snap bean), Florida celery, eggplant, escarole, endive, green onions, iceberg lettuce, parsley, radishes some of the larger new potatoes green squash and watercress.

Best bets at fruit counters are grapefruit, bananas and oranges.

Avocados, pineapples, strawberries and Chilean honeydew melons are good buys.

How to Tell If You Are Neurotic

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—How can you tell if you're neurotic?

To the trained eye there are often telltale physical signs.

For example, Dr. Leonard L. Lovshin of Cleveland, Ohio, writing in a medical journal, saw at least potential neuroses in housewives who over-pluck their eyebrows or dye their hair a vivid platinum blonde, people who wear sun glasses on cloudy days, and persons who blush or perspire excessively.

Even cold feet, he said, might hint at an emotion-based illness.

The list is fine as far as it goes—but it doesn't go far enough. When you get right down to it, any behavior—particularly if it is different from your own—may be a sign of hidden or even active neurosis. Aren't we all a bit daffy to a degree?

Anyone can make up a personal catalogue of people he's convinced are probably neurotic. Here's my list.

The man who brags he never has bought anything on the installment plan and never will.

All suburbanites, but particularly those who insist they actually enjoy spending three hours commuting to and from work.

Anybody who claims dieting can be fun.

Waiters who always bring you lemon with your tea when you ask for cream.

Parents who boast their teenage children never give them any trouble.

Any husband who lets his wife dole him out lunch money every day.

Any wife foolish enough to give her husband his full week's supply of lunch money on Monday.

Anybody who thinks taxes ought to be higher—or who really believes they will ever be lower.

Movie stars who decline to discuss their divorces but are eager to give their views on how to gain world peace.

Any couple married five years or more who say in public, "We've never had a quarrel."

Any man or woman who hates to become a grandparent because of the fear of growing older.

Anybody who writes a column for a living.

All these people may not be openly neurotic—but they're certainly open to suspicion.

CLOUDED CRYSTAL BALL
BALTIMORE (AP)—A theatrical mentalist billed as a man "with x-ray eyes" wore adhesive tape and a black cloth to obscure his vision as he walked into a store for a demonstration.

Without hesitation, he approached a stranger in uniform and said, "Hello, officer. How are you?"

The performance would have been more astounding if the man in uniform had been a policeman instead of a soft drink truck driver.

Okays Money for Jet Bombers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Armed Services Committee today added money for continued production of jet bombers in authorizing nearly $300 million more than the Kennedy administration asked for new aircraft, missiles and ships.

Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., said the measure totalling $12,368,000,000, is the "largest authorization bill in the history of Congress."

The committee added $337 million for heavy bombers and supersonic medium bombers. Neither the original defense budget nor the revision submitted this spring contained any requests for money for continuing bomber production after the scheduled completion of orders next year.

Spaceman to Be Busier Than Russian

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—America's initial astronaut likely will top Yuri Gagarin in bringing home critical knowledge needed for man, the thinking machine, to wheel around in space.

Alan B. Shepard—if he makes the first flight—apparently will be far busier than the Soviet pilot was, doing more tasks. Navy Comdr. Shepard has been selected for the job, but some change could disqualify him.

Detailed psychological, medical and technical knowledge is needed to write the book for man into space.

This astronaut will have his memory culled of every last tidbit of information on reactions and performance through verbal and written reports and tests. He will even re-live his flight the day after, seeing himself on TV film as he flew the capsule.

The Soviets have released only sparse details of Gagarin's experience, and perhaps did not arrange for as complete a harvest of information from it.

The U. S. pilot is being asked to control his capsule in flight to some extent, operate a periscope and radio, observe stars and clouds through a porthole, and conduct other tests.

Recording devices and his own impressions, will help show how much, if at all, weightlessness and increased gravity pull affect human physical and psychological performances.

He will begin recording his observations and judgments soon after he boards a pick-up ship.

That same day he flies to quiet seclusion on Grand Bahama Island for very detailed physical exams to see if there are any subtle changes in faculties or condition.

The following day he will file written reports and talk extensively with experts in various fields of the space project to supply all possible technical data.

Relocation of Highways at Little Rock

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Highway Department has settled on a route for relocation of Highways 65 and 167 south of Little Rock, Chief Engineer Ward Goodman said today.

The department had to abandon its original route after it was learned the proposed path crossed valuable bauxite deposits.

Purchase of mineral rights would have made right of way costs prohibitive.

Goodman said the highway commission and the federal Bureau of Public Roads have concurred on a route designated as E-1, which runs slightly east of the original route and does not cross any bauxite property.

After property owners protested in December, 1959, about the original location, the Highway Department laid out four alternate routes and conducted test borings along the proposed right of way in a search for bauxite. Land costs were computed for each route.

Right of way for the E-1 route will cost an estimated $193,000, compared to a $779,000 estimate for the original route.

The latter figure included nearly $600,000 for mineral rights.

Estimated overall construction cost of the 4.89 mile E-1 route is $2,122,000, compared to $2,621,000 for the 4.8 mile original route.

The area in question is along a section where relocated Highways 65 and 167 will run together for about seven miles to connect with Interstate Highway 30 in Little Rock.

South of the combined section, the new highways will branch to connect with existing portions of Highway 65 near Hensley and Highway 167 near East End.

Construction contracts already have been awarded on the two branches.

U.S. Jobless Falls During Past Month

WASHINGTON (AP)—Unemployment fell by 533,000 in April, the government reported today, but officials said the decline was wholly seasonal.

The report showed that the idle total dropped to 4,962,000 from 5,495,000 in March.

Employment rose by 218,000, less than expected. It moved from 65,516,000 in March to 65,734,000 in April.

The Labor Department explained that the reason unemployment dropped by more than the increase in employment was that the total work force declined by 315,000.

An important factor in the April job report was that, while non-farm employment rose by the amount seasonally expected, farm

Commission Now to Foot Bill

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Publicity and Parks Commission has decided to pay the bill of sending the Arkansas Mother of the Year to the American Mothers Award ceremonies this week in New York.

The commission, in refusing at first to pay the $500 expenses, claimed the contest was not truly a state-wide contest and did not deserve state funds. However, a protest was lodged by the American Mothers Committee of Arkansas saying Arkansas' mother of the year, Mrs. Ben A. Lincoln of Little Rock, shouldn't have to pay her own way.

The commission finally approved $250 for the trip which apparently excludes paying the expenses of Mrs. Tullie Wyrick of Magnolia, head of the Arkansas mothers committee, who usually accompanies the state winner.

UNDER OWN FLAG

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Frank Sinatra, a man of far-flung enterprises, is now cutting records under the label of his own recording company, Essex.

And, on another flank of musical performance, operatic star Eleanor Steber and husband Gordon Andrews have taken a similar plunge, with their STAND Company, Inc. The initials stand for Steber and Andrews.

The commission finally approved $250 for the trip which apparently excludes paying the expenses of Mrs. Tullie Wyrick of Magnolia, head of the Arkansas mothers committee, who usually accompanies the state winner.

Both sides rushed in late batches of proxies during the night before the polls closed. The Murchisons brought in five deliveries on airplanes from New York City.

While each gave out optimistic statements, neither would claim victory in advance.

The principals left lawyers to the ballot counting after a time, 90-minute annual meeting Monday attended by about stockholders.

Financial Battle Is Underway

By ROGER LANE

AP Business News Writer

BALTIMORE (AP)—The count to determine control of one of the country's financial giants, the Allegheny Corp., began shortly before noon today in a closely guarded wing of a downtown hotel.

The secrecy of the ballot even extended to how many were cast out of a potential nine million.

The result, which may not be known for at least a week and could be subject to contesting in court, will decide whether Allan P. Kirby continues as leader of management or is replaced by two Texas brothers, John and Clint Murchison.

Action in Laos Problem to Kennedy

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy faces a tormented choice in Laos. Act to save it from the Communist-led guerrillas? Or let it go down the drain?

If the United States intervenes, Kennedy can't possibly predict the outcome. It would be a brush-fire war which could become a big one, with Red China moving in.

If nothing is done, Laos is sure to be lost. But that's not all. If the United States holds back, it will be encouragement to the Reds to grab for the rest of Southeast Asia.

This country has an alliance to protect the area—SEATO, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization—with seven other countries. They are Britain, France, the Philippines, Thailand, Pakistan, Australia and New Zealand.

There is no sign of enthusiasm in this country for getting American men involved in war on the continent of Asia.

But if Americans don't want to go in, the United States can hardly expect the British, French, Australians, New Zealanders or the people of the Philippines to send in men.

Not one of them is on the continent of Asia.

Only two of the eight allies are: Pakistan, which is separated from Laos by Burma, and Thailand, which is Laos' next-door neighbor.

Yet, if the alliance fails to act, it is weakened and American prestige suffers in all Southeast Asia.

If Laos goes to the Communists, because of the failure of SEATO to act, the will of Thailand to resist Communist pressure is diminished.

It would probably be pressured fast.

Thailand is on one side of Laos. On the other is South Viet Nam, where Communist guerrillas from the north already have the country wobbly.

Kennedy himself is skeptical South Viet Nam can be saved. Since the Communists think time is on their side, they don't have to smash Thailand and South Viet Nam instantly. A bit at a time is good enough.

Two other Laotian neighbors are already neutralist, Cambodia and Burma. The Communists can by-pass them, pick them off later.

What makes Kennedy's position doubly difficult is that he talked about Laos. That was on March 23.

He warned that unless the Red-led guerrillas agreed to a cease-fire, the United States would have to act. He didn't say how.

But the guerrillas, supplied by Russia, ignored the warning, kept pushing, knocked off more pieces of Laos, have not agreed to a cease-fire.

Since Russia is backing them, the lack of a cease-fire can be considered a Russian decision to stall to give the guerrillas more time to take more of Laos.

But the stalling does more. It's costing Premier Khrushchev comparatively little to test Kennedy's determination.

Since more than a month has passed since the Kennedy warning, his failure to act may be interpreted by Khrushchev as weakness or indecision.

Kennedy has done a lot of talking, with his aides, his security council, with former Presidents Eisenhower and Hoover, and with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Time is running out on him in Laos. Shortly he must decide to act or stand still.

If he stands still, and this is something he has to consider, the next time he talks tough the Russians may give him the ha-ha.

TO HAVE AND TO KILL

By Robert Martin Copyright © 1960 by Robert Martin Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

THE STORY: Jim Bennett, a private detective who is to be the best man at the wedding of his friend Max Dane, has discovered that one of the guests, Julius Stockmaster, is not a deaf-mute as he pretends. He has seen Stockmaster and Laura Reynolds, the bride-to-be in a touching love scene.

CHAPTER XV

I returned to the study, feeling weary but still restless and not quite ready to go to bed. I sat at the table, shuffled the cards and began to lay out a game of solitaire.

As I flipped over the cards, I thought of Dixie McQueen; on the surface a pretty, healthy, somewhat naive girl, duped by Max Dane, who had treated her shabbily, indeed, I felt sorry for her, but I did not know her well enough to judge her character and capabilities. I only hoped that she would leave in the morning without a fuss. There were plenty of complications without that. And at the core of it all was the lovely and ruthless Laura Reynolds. A movement caught my eye and I looked up. She was standing in the doorway.

Laura Reynolds, I mean.

I stood up and smiled at her. The white bag was still tucked under one arm and she still wore the white dress. "Where is everyone?" she asked. Her expression was composed now and she seemed calm and as cool as snow. "Gone to bed, I guess—except Mr. Stockmaster. I believe he is outside somewhere."

Her lips curled in faint bitterness. "Drunk." Then she surprised and dazzled me by suddenly smiling. "Thank you, Mr. Bennett."

"You remember my name?"

"Of course." She hesitated and her eyes wavered. "Would you do me a favor?"

"If I can."

"Tell me why Max isn't here tonight." She was watching me carefully now.

"I understand that some business matters detained him."

"You'd lie for him, wouldn't you?" The smile had gone and the bitter quirk was again on her lips.

"I might," I said, "but there's no reason now. What difference does it make? He'll be here tomorrow."

"He'd better be." Her voice held an edge. "Do you know where I can reach him?"

"I'm sorry, no." I was pleased that I could tell the truth this time. I only knew where Max was supposed to be.

"What about that young man who carried my bags up and served the drinks? Cecil, is that his name? Would he know?"

"Ask him."

"He's a servant, isn't he? Call him for me, please."

"Call him yourself," I said. "I don't care where Max is."

Her eyes blazed and for a second I thought she was going to slap me. But even in anger she was a handsome woman, if one did not look too closely the tiny lines around her eyes and mouth, and the slight puffiness beneath the chin.

She said coldly, "I don't think I like you."

"That's okay with me."

Her manner changed, or else she was a good actress. She smiled and said softly, "I'm sorry."

"That's all right. Won't you sit down?"

She shook her head. "I want to find Julius—Mr. Stockmaster. Which way did he go out?"

"That-a-way," I jerked a thumb toward the end of the hall. "Would you like me to go with you?" I don't know why I said it.

She gave that smile again. "Why do you offer? Do you think I'm afraid?"

"It's dark out there and—"

"Your concern is touching," she broke in.

"Then you aren't going to wake up Cecil?"

"I haven't decided," she said crisply. "I do think Max could have made an effort to be here when I arrived. I feel that I'm among strangers."

I said carefully, "Mr. Stockmaster is not a stranger."

She eyed me a moment before she spoke. "No, he isn't. I've known him for years. He was a friend of my father's."

I decided the time was ripe to fire my big gun. "Why does Stockmaster pretend to be a deaf-mute?"

She sighed, half turned away from me, turned back and said sadly, "So you saw us in the library?"

"Yes."

"And heard us?"

"I'm afraid so."

"Are you going to tell Max?"

"I'm sorry, but I've just decided that it's my duty to tell him."

She slapped me, viciously and with startling suddenness. My cheek stung. She stepped back, her eyes blazing as she spat the words at me. "Tell Max, you stupid oaf. Go ahead. He won't believe you."

"You're a sweet, lovely girl," I said. "Go find your drunken lover."

She glared at me with pure hate, nostrils distended, breasts rising and falling. She clutched the bag with both hands, red nails digging into the rhinestone-encrusted fabric. I smiled politely and stepped past her to the door where I stopped and turned. She had not moved and stood rigidly with her back to me.

"Good night," I said.

CHAPTER XVI

I reached the door beyond the kitchen and stepped out to the terrace. The wind was blowing harder now and the waves on the beach boomed a deeper song. I walked to the parapet in the wing and stood there gazing at the lake and the beach below. Moving clouds obscured the moon at times, but it was quite bright and the choppy water glistened as far as I could see. I didn't see Julius Stockmaster and wondered where he had gone.

I lit a cigarette, and stood there gazing out over the lake. Behind me a faint sound carried above the wind. A door slamming? I turned and in the moonlight I saw a slender figure hurrying from the house. The wind billowed her white dress and tossed her dark hair. I saw that it was Laura Reynolds. As she reached the sandstone steps leading down to the beach, I called to her above the wind. "I don't think he's down there."

She stopped and whirled toward me and I could see her clearly in the moonlight, her wind-blown hair and even the glitter of her eyes as she watched me. Then she turned, dismissing me with a contemptuous lift of a shoulder, and went down the steps. She disappeared below the parapet and then I saw her on the beach, walking awkwardly over the sand in her high heels in the direction of the sundial. When I could no longer see her I snapped my cigarette into the wind and went back into the house.

I was about to head for my room at the far end of the hall, when I caught a tiny movement in the deep shadow by the window which, I knew, overlooked the terrace and part of the beach. I stopped and turned slowly.

"Good evening, James," I knew Mrs. Dane's voice.

"Hello," I could see her more clearly now. She wore a belted robe of some light color. Her left hand cradled her right elbow and the jade cigarette holder, empty, protruded from between the fingers of her right hand.

"Did I startle you?" she asked.

I stepped closer. "I was surprised to see you up here."

"I've been looking out at the lake, James."

"Yes," I said. "Windy though."

I paused. Then: "I hope you are feeling better."

"Bosh. I feel fine, but I had a very good reason for not coming downstairs this evening."

"Oh?" I said, pretending polite ignorance.

"James, I simply will not acknowledge that woman's presence in my house."

I hesitated a brief moment, thinking of what I knew about Laura Reynolds, before I said gently, "You may as well face it."

"Where is she now?"

"On the beach, I believe."

"What's she doing there at this time of night?"

I said nothing.

"James, can't you do anything about this impossible situation?"

"It's a little late. Everything is arranged."

"It was all done without my knowledge," she snapped. "Behind my back. No, it is not too late. If it's money she's after—and I'm sure it is—I am prepared to pay. I know only one thing, James: one way or the other, I'll prevent that woman from marrying my son."

"Or any woman?" I asked softly.

"Not at all," she said coldly.

"I resent that remark, James. If Maxwell meets the right girl—"

"Like Dixie?"

"I am a judge of character, James. And she's Sandra's sister. If Maxwell could only have met a girl like Sandra—you're very fortunate, James."

"Thank you," I edged away.

"Good night, James."

I left her standing by the moonlit window.

I was about to turn off the light and go to bed when there came a soft knock of my door. I opened it and gazed into the keep black eyes of William Darmody, Julius Stockmaster's deaf-mute secretary. He wore no coat, but was otherwise fully dressed. He smiled apologetically, produced his pad of blue paper and a pencil, wrote hurriedly and held it up for me to see. "Sorry to disturb you. Saw your light. I'm concerned about Mr. Stockmaster. Do you know where he is?"

I took his pad and wrote, "I saw him go outside about an hour ago."

Then he smiled, showing his teeth beneath the neat black mustache, and wrote again. "I'd better go out and look for Julius. Good night."

I took the pad and wrote, "He may not be alone."

He read, nodded sadly, shrugged and wrote once more. "I know. What can we do about it?"

It was my turn to shrug.

Against More TV Spots During Breaks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Newton N. Minow of the Federal Communications Commission today expressed hope that the TV networks' plan for longer identification breaks by stations will not increase the number of local spot commercials during the breaks.

If this occurs, Minow said, he would certainly want FCC to do something about it.

His comment was prompted by the recent announcement of the American Broadcasting Co., that it plans, starting next fall, to increase the TV station break time from 30 to 40 seconds. The other networks have indicated they will do the same thing.

Such breaks permit an affiliated station to identify itself and air brief local or regional ads.

Court Rules Against Rail Union

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today decided the Interstate Commerce Act does not require that employees of merged railroads must be continued in active employment status.

Chief Justice Warren delivered the 8-1 decision. Justice Douglas wrote a dissenting opinion.

The court ruled on an appeal by the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and the Railway Labor Executives' Association. The organizations asked better job protection for workers affected by the 1960 merger of the Erie and Lackawanna railroads.

The Interstate Commerce Act says that as a result of railroad mergers no employees may be placed "in a worse position with respect to their employment" for four years from the date of the Interstate Commerce Commission's merger order. For those who worked for a railroad less than four years, the protective period would equal the time of their service before the merger.

Counsel for the labor organizations told the Supreme Court that provisions fixed by ICC to protect workers in the Erie-Lackawanna merger violated the act. The argument was that employees could be dismissed with financial compensation because of the merger instead of being given comparable jobs.

Railway labor sought conditions that would prevent dismissal of any employee because of the merger, allowing reduction of working forces only by natural attrition, such as deaths, retirements and resignations.

Solicitor General Archibald Cox and counsel for the Erie-Lackawanna supported the ICC order. Cox described the worker protection provisions as the most elaborate ever known in and out of the railroad industry.

The ICC merger order included a guaranteed wage for four years to those dismissed, no salary loss for four years to those transferred to other jobs, and retention by all affected employees of pension, health and other fringe benefits.

The Erie and Lackawanna merged last October, but all jobs have been frozen pending outcome of the litigation.

A three-judge U.S. District Court in Detroit rejected claims of the two employee organizations which then appealed to the Supreme Court.

The high court was told the merger would result in elimination of 1,982 jobs and transfer of 2,159 others. The merged railroad operates 2,961 miles of track in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.
